

Ike Takes a Look at Next 4 Years

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) When President Eisenhower arose today and looked out at the world in which he will soon begin his second term, he may have wondered: "Will these next four years be as nice as the first?"

It would be almost too much to expect. True, he had some personal misfortune these past four years: A heart attack and an intestinal operation. And he had some major problems to handle.

He had to end the war in Korea; he had to act fast to get the British and French out of Egypt and avoid a bigger war; he had to snarl with the Russians; he saw half of Indochina lost to Communism.

And from time to time he had some trouble with Congress, especially with members of his own party, like Sen. McCarthy of Wisconsin, or like Sen. Knowland of California who didn't hesitate to express views not always the same as Eisenhower's.

But all in all he made out wonderfully well.

No President could be subjected to less criticism. The man in the White House is usually fair game for mud and bricks. Eisenhower, avoiding personal criticism himself, gave his critics little excuse for throwing the first stone.

But now he begins a second term, which, under the constitutional limitation on the presidency, must be his last.

That means that the race for the presidency in 1960 is wide open, although right now Vice President Nixon would seem to have the inside track for the Republican nomination.

Each Republican presidential hopeful will have to decide whether his best chance of becoming the party's nominee lies (A) in being a quiet yes-man for Eisenhower for four years or (B) in throwing his weight around to get national attention.

And the Democrats, so mild and cooperative with Eisenhower since 1952 that they sometimes rescued him from his own Republicans, know that they failed to build in the public mind any big difference between themselves and Republicans.

The congressional Democrats apparently struck the public fancy by their tactics in the past four years — they were restored to control of Congress while their presidential candidate lost — but they can hardly remain docile eight years.

For politicians that would be most unnatural. So Eisenhower should have a far rougher time in the years coming up right here at home.

In foreign affairs his future is very uncertain although probably not more so than when he first took office. Then his problems lay in Asia. Now they're in the Middle East.

While things are fairly quiet there now, there's no assurance they will remain so. And Russia, unpredictable when he first took office, is just as much so.

Eisenhower seems to have a lot of self-confidence. He'll probably need all of it before he finishes his White House job.

Police Seek Dumas Store Robbers

DUMAS (AP) Police were pressing a search today for burglars who robbed the John Deere tractor and farm equipment store here of $600 in cash and $18,500 in Series E government bonds Saturday night.

An actual entry was made through a window of the store, said Sheriff A. D. Mooring. The officer said it appeared that an electric drill had been used to open the safe containing the cash bonds. Four other safes — three of which had been left open — were ransacked, Mooring said.

Over Score of Churches Hit by Fire in '56

By The Associated Press
More than a score of the nation's churches were destroyed or damaged by fire during 1956. The loss ran into millions of dollars. Arson was blamed in several cases.

Destruction by fire yesterday of Hartford's historic St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Cathedral, largest in Connecticut, wound up the year of mysterious church fires.

There was a suspicion that the Hartford fire, second there in Roman Catholic churches in 51 hours may have been set deliberately.

"They have to be more than coincidence," said Hartford Fire Chief Henry G. Thomas of the fire at St. Joseph's and a blaze Sunday that destroyed St. Patrick's Church about a mile away.

The damage to St. Joseph's Cathedral was estimated at five million dollars. Damage to St. Patrick's was placed at $250,000. Hartford police held one man for questioning.

Trenton, N. J., was hardest hit by church fires during the year. Elmer C. Lucas pleaded guilty Dec. 19 to setting five fires, including a 3 million dollar blaze that killed three persons at St. Mary's Cathedral.

He also was accused of setting a $200,000 fire in the First Methodist Church of Trenton plus smaller fires in three other churches.

Theodore Pravda, a second Trenton arsonist, pleaded guilty Dec. 22 to starting fires in a synagogue, a Roman Catholic church and a Ukrainian Orthodox church on Dec. 20.

Church fires from unknown causes also occurred during the month of December in three other sections of the country. At Cambridge, Mass., flames engulfed St. John the Evangelist Roman Catholic church Dec. 8. The loss was placed at a million dollars.

In Springfield, Ill., a fire in the Sunday school house of the First Methodist Church led police to suspect arson. An earlier fire there did $250,000 damage to the First Congregational Church. Again, the cause of the fire was unknown.

Bolls—Clark

Nuptials Performed

First Christian Church of Prescott was the setting for the wedding of Miss Sue Carolyn Clark and Arlen Jackson Bolls Wednesday afternoon December 26 at four o'clock. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ardell Clark of Hope. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bolls of Prescott.

Views were exchanged before the altar decorated with floor baskets filled with white gladioli and chrysanthemums and burning white tapers in seven branched candelabra. S. R. Tipton of Hope officiated. Mrs. Charles Gutenshon of Arkadelphia, aunt of the bride, played "Clair De Lune," "Moonlight Sonata," "Liebestraum," the traditional wedding marches and accompanied Miss Margaret Hunter Scott who sang "If I Could Tell You."

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her wait-length wedding gown of Chantilly lace and tulle over satin was fashioned with a V-neckline. The bouffant skirt featured inserts of applique lace medallions and seed pearls. A pearl coronet held the illusion veil which fell to her fingertips. She wore a strand of pearls given her by the bridegroom. On a white Bible she carried an orchid showered with Stephanotis and lilies of the valley.

Miss Margie Clark, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a wait-length dress of blue tulle with matching bandeau and carried a fan shaped bouquet of pink feathered mums.

Charles Bolls served his brother as best man. Ushers were Bill Clark, brother of the bride and Bob Loe, cousin of the bridegroom. Mrs. Clark, mother of the bride wore a mauve peau de soie frock and hat of pink velvet. Mrs. Bolls, mother of the bridegroom, wore a navy silk dress with matching accessories. Both wore gardenia corsages.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Lawson Hotel. The bride's table was covered with an imported cut-work cloth and decorated with white tapers in crystal holders and centered with the bride's bouquet. The three tiered wedding cake was topped with a miniature bride and groom. Miss June White served the cake and Miss Mary Nell Bolls presided at the crystal punch bowl. Mrs. Dale Ward was in charge of the bride's book. Others assisting were Mrs. Martin Fox Jr., of Hope, Mrs. Horace Jones and Mrs. Dawson Henry.

Bolls—Clark Wedding Party

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Ward entertained with an informal party at their home for the Bolls-Clark wedding party following the rehearsal on Tuesday evening. The rooms were beautifully decorated in the holiday theme.

Miss Clark and Mr. Bolls presented gifts to their attendants. Shrimp cocktail, coffee and cake were served from a table centered with a fruit bowl.

Others included Mr. and Mrs. Ardell Clark, Hershel Loe, Charles Bolls, Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Tipton, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Clark, Johnny Clark, Miss Margaret Hunter Scott, Miss Margie Clark and Bill Clark.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Miner and Kit of Magnolia were the guests last week of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Ward.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Sallee and children of Bossier City, La., have been the guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John T. McRae.

Guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. N. N. Daniel last week were Mr. and Mrs. James Daniel, Pam and Sonny of Forrest City, Mr. and Mrs. Milford Daniel, Jerry, Bob and Mike of Magnolia, Mr. and Mrs. Crit Stuart Jr., Dan, Crit III and Rebecca of Hope, Miss Bernice Daniel of Chicago, Ill., Pete Hays of Del Rio, Texas, Miss Rebecca Daniel and Jack Grant of Miami, Florida.

Miss Dorothy Jameson has returned to Western Springs, Ill., after a visit with her sister, Mrs. Norwood Smith and Mr. Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Hamby have had as their guests Mr. and Mrs. Alfred E. Smith III, Randolph and Irene of Baton Rouge, La.

Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Scott of Little Rock have been the guests and Mrs. Vick Scott and Miss Carol Scott.

Dr. and Mrs. D. L. Moseley, Dixie and Freddie were guests last week of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Moseley in Warren.

Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Robinson of El Dorado announce the arrival of a daughter on December 23. Mrs. Mettie Robinson of Prescott is the paternal grandmother.

CIVIL RIGHTS — The House may again pass the bill providing the greater civil rights as proposed by President Eisenhower. Some northern Democratic senators are outspoken in their demands for civil rights legislation. Most southern senators are opposed. Could be stormiest issue before Congress.

YANK RAPPED — Lt. Gen. Raymond Wheeler, U.S.A. (ret.), who is in charge of the U.N. project to clear the Suez Canal, was under fire in the British House of Commons. Sir Peter Roberts urged his ouster, describing the American's efforts as "dilatory and ineffective." A motion to vote "no confidence" in Wheeler was introduced, but the Eden government is not expected to support the attack.

of civilian absentee and shut-in ballots on the grounds most of them were cast before election day. Servicemen's absentee ballots were not challenged.

The counting of absentee ballots, legal moves and other maneuvers have carried the issue right down to inauguration day.

After a lengthy session yesterday, Chief Justice Edmund W. Flynn said he is "hopeful" that a decision may be reached before inauguration time.

In the event the issue is not decided Roberts would continue as hold-over governor until a decision is reached.

Gov. Roberts' brother, Associate Justice Thomas H. Roberts, is a member of the state Supreme Court, but he has removed himself from the bench during the controversy and will have no part in settling the issue.

Some political observers have noted that more than the governorship may hinge on the court decision as ultimate control of the U. S. Senate might be involved.

Rhode Island's Democratic senator Theodore Green, who is 69 years old. His term has four more years to run. If his seat became vacant it would be filled by the governor.

A Republican governor would be expected to name a Republican. This would divide the present Senate with 40 for each party and leave Vice President Nixon casting tie-breaking votes.

The governor said last night that he has alerted his staff to assist Del Sesto immediately in the event the court decision favors the former Democratic state and federal office holder who switched his party allegiance in 1947.

and voice claims of mounting strength. His members arranged to meet again Wednesday in the office of Sen. Douglas (D-Ill.).

Meanwhile Dixie Democratic Senators planned their own strategy meeting for Wednesday in the office of Sen. Russell (D-Ga.).

Most of the talking came from the pro-civil rights bill camp, but Russell told a reporter the Northern-Western group might find it has won more than it had either bargained for or wanted if it succeeds in its drive to rewrite Senate rules.

"There are a lot of rules" others would like to change, he said, but he declined to go into detail.

Anderson, however, announced he will offer a motion when Congress meets on Thursday challenging the theory that the Senate's rules continue from one Congress to the next one.

The rules themselves forbid the imposition of any time limit on debating motions to change them are require the vote of 64 of the 96 Senators to limit debate of a bill. Without a limit, a determined minority can talk a bill to death preventing it from coming to a vote, by continuing debate on it until proponents of the measure surrender.

Pro Player Is Knifed at Reunion Party

HOUSTON, Tex. (UP) Paul Carr, all-conference defensive back of the San Francisco 49ers football team, was critically stabbed last night to climax a new year's reunion of former University of Houston grid stars.

Carr, 25, was taken to Methodist hospital with two stab wounds in the chest from a switchblade knife that barely nicked his heart, doctors said. His condition was rated as "poor."

Police arrested but did not immediately charge a 25-year-old ex-convict who was hosting a second New Year's Eve party in the swank Western-Skies motel where the stabbing occurred.

Police identified the man as James R. Chambliss, 25. They said he served prison time in Oklahoma on a narcotics charge in 1950, and got 18 months in Houston in October, 1954, for the auto death of a seven-year old shoe-shine boy.

Police said Chambliss refused to make a statement.

Police said Carr was stabbed when he got into an altercation with Chambliss when the two celebrations — in rooms facing each other across a corridor — somehow merged.

Fire Guts Timber in Fordyce Area

FORDYCE (AP) — Eleven acres of timber west of Fordyce were destroyed in a forest fire yesterday, bringing to 50 the number of acres burned in the Fordyce area since Friday.

Firemen said that as long as the wind remained from the west there was a good chance the fire could be controlled.

The fire of undetermined cause broke out about 3 a. m. in a low zero weather. All of the city's 20 firemen were called out, but there apparently was no chance of saving the timber located in the oldest part of this city of 11,000 on Chequamegon Bay on Lake Superior.

Business Good in 1956, '57 Looms Even Better

"We had a very good business in 1956 and 1957 should be even better" was a general statement from various businessmen Monday when asked about sales during the past year and prospects for the future.

Not a single retail outlet failed to report a gain over the previous year and some reported the best year in history of their establishment. And every man predicted 1957 should be even better.

However, several cautioned that the only thing they could see that might keep 1957 from being a banner year, in their opinion, is the possibility of an increase in the tax. "But we will fight such increase to the last ditch," commented. Otherwise there is nothing in the future they can see that would cause a business slump.

The first nine months of 1956 were the best in history, several merchants agreed. Then business tended to fall off a little but jumped back in stride before Christmas. Thus every report indicated "over the entire year business was exceptionally good."

And it should be noted several stores were very happy about their stock, indicating it was "cleaner" and better merchandise than at the same time year ago.

As a whole 1956 appears to have ended with every retail store showing a substantial increase and there is plenty of confidence for the future.

Predictions for Hollywood for New Year

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) What will the new year bring to Hollywood? Take a look over my shoulder as I squint into the crystal ball. Here are my exclusive predictions of things to come in 1957—predictions that have proved 85 per cent fallible.

No relief is in sight for the victims of longhairitis. Movies will be longer than ever. Maybe as long as "The 10 Commandments." But you'll be seeing more three-hour films.

This will be the year of decision for Elvis Presley. The squitter has a big juvenile following but the teen-agers are notoriously fickle fans. Presley will have to convince the adult audience that he has talent. This is a monumental task.

The standard film idols—the Holdens, Coopers, Stewarts, Lancasters—have nothing to worry about. Their earning power will continue undiminished partly due to lack of competition. The studios have failed to build up rivals for the vet stars.

The era of the big studio operation will fade. Only one company, Columbia, still exists under an old man rule. More and more, the studios will be run by committees with the bulk of the films made by outside producers.

Efforts will be made to break out the backlogs of films made after 1948 and put them into TV. These have been held back because talent unions have contracts calling for a part of the take.

Producers will be looking for big, attention-getting subjects to copy the success of "Around the World in 80 Days."

Among the big pictures of the year: "Rainbow Valley," "Satanstoe," "South Pacific," "Andersonville," "Sleeping Beauty," "The Pride and the Passion," "Something of Value," "Island in the Sun," "A Farewell to Arms," "Face in the Crowd," "Prisoner of War," "The Spirit of St. Louis," "The Last Hurrah," "Pal Joey."

Yep it looks like a good year for the picture business men. Hope you have the same.

Ortiz Finishes Strong for Win

NEW YORK (AP) — Classy Carlos Ortiz still was unbeaten among the pro lightweight today but he had to come off the floor to win his 19th straight.

The 20-year-old Ortiz survived a first round knockdown last night then came on strong to win a unanimous decision over Gale Kerwin of Valley Stream, N. Y., after 10 brisk rounds at St. Nicholas Arena.

A transplanted Puerto Rican living in New York, Ortiz sagged in the fifth round and followed it up in the ensuing stanzas with a whirlwind attack that gave him a one-sided verdict.

Judges Al Singer and Frank Fullam scored it 8-2 for Ortiz and Referee Johnny Lobianco had it 8-1-1.

Ortiz weighed 135 1/2 pounds. Kerwin scaled 139.

Omnibus Plans Greek Tragedy for Sunday

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP) — "It's not going to be like Milton Berle," said "Omnibus" executive producer Robert Sander with a slow smile. "But it will be done in an understandable way as possible."

He was speaking of Sophocles' great Greek tragedy, "Oedipus the King," which "Omnibus" (ABC-TV) will present next Sunday at 9 p. m. EST with the Broadway star, Christopher Plummer, in the leading role.

Refusing to offer either a modernized, corned-up version or one of these tedious college interpretations of Greek tragedy, "Omnibus" will present the drama in early Greek style. The television adaptation is by Walter Kerr from the Fitzgerald translation.

How to handle a Greek chorus chorus oneman rule. More and more, the studios will be run by committees with the bulk of the films made by outside producers.

Burlesque Returns to New York

NEW YORK (AP) — Burlesque — without the strip — tease, bumps or grinds — returned to New York City last night after a 19-year exile.

"Nothing offensive," commented License Commissioner BJ-NWO, J. O'Connell after he witnessed the 2-hour opening night performance at the Columbia burlesque theater. The show drew a half-capacity crowd.

O'Connell and two aides viewed the performance to make sure the show's management upheld its pledge to keep it clean. The late Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia banished burlesque from the city in 1937 on grounds it was lewd and unsavory.

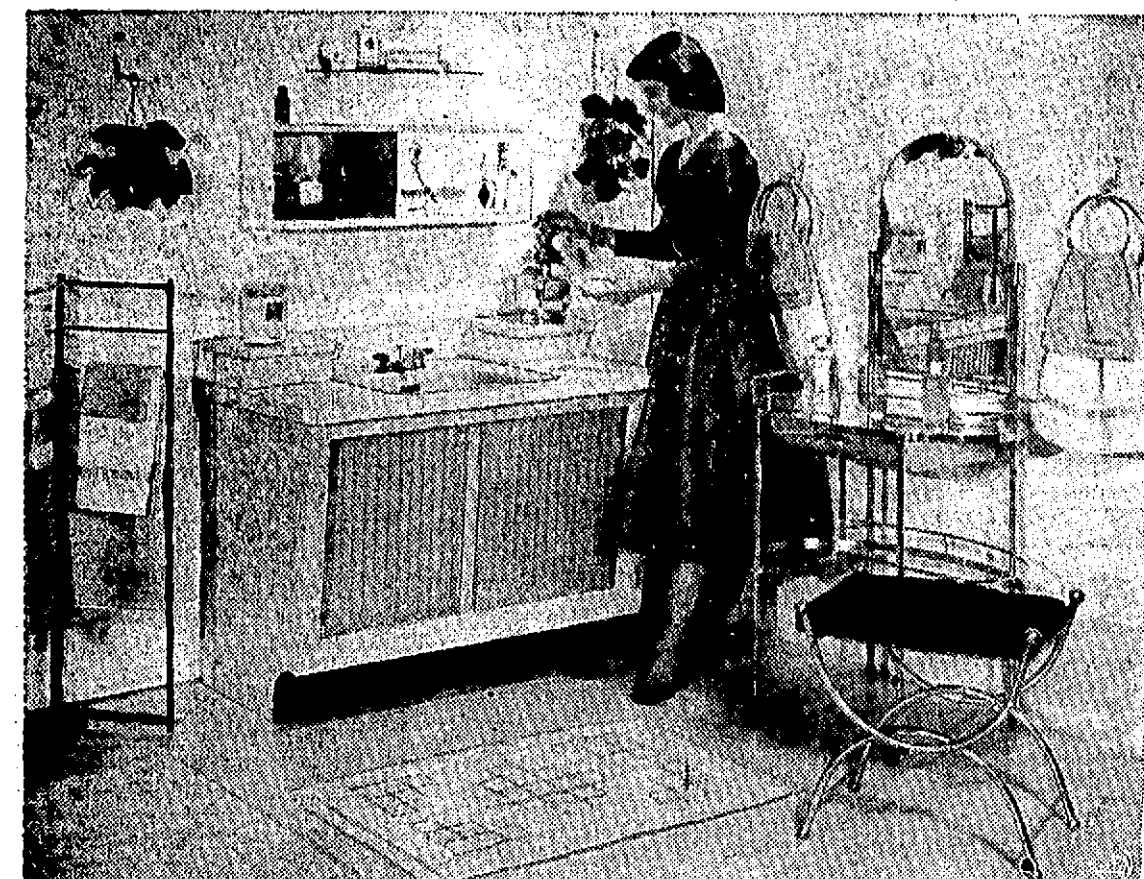

The show, approximately titled "Welcome Exile," stuck to the new script. The bawdy, trousers, burlesque skirts and bare midriffs were there. But the spots where strippers once cavorted were filled with attempts at ballet.

Hula dancer Donna Yea and tap dancer Shirley McGuire supplied most of the sex appeal.

"All of us have high hopes for this," declared Miss Yea, but she expressed disappointment at the crowd.

Resort fashions take naturally to supima, the extra-long staple cotton grown right here in America. A luxury cotton, it comes in weights from sheer to broadcloth and woven novelties. We show Claire McCordell's late day dress (left) in a cotton print of rose-belle with rose print in deeper tones. This has the deep, scooped neckline front and back, the new longer length and high waistline. Sarong-type bathing suit (center) is a supima cotton print in green and gold. This is a one-piece suit with button-on, draped skirt. Short-sleeved dress by Claire McCordell (right) is print in bronze and yellow, has soft pleating over the bosom. Kimono sleeves push up and skirt fullness is handled through unpressed pleats. The fabric in all three designs has a silk feel.

Lavender and pink highlighted by the gleam of solid brass bring a new elegance to bathroom decoration. Brass towel screen holds lavender and pink towels which sparkle with interwoven gold threads. English lavender scented bath products on shelves point up the coordination of color and fragrance.

DOROTHY DIX

Go Slow — Office Wolf Is Probably Married

Dear Dorothy Dix: I'm 16 and desperately in love with a co-worker ten years my senior. I don't know whether he's married or not, but by his attitude, I'd say he was definitely interested. I can't decide whether he regards me as a kid around the office, or a potential girl friend. How can I tell?

LINDA
Dear Linda: A definite interest doesn't necessarily mean he's free to follow it up. Perhaps you're getting lesson No. 1 in how to tell the wolves from the lambs.

While you're in a learning mood, take up the difference between "desperate love" and a crush. The latter, I think, is your trouble.

Treat the man as an office associate and nothing more. If he is available, and wants to give encouragement, he knows how!

Dear Dorothy Dix: From first grade on Hal and I were friends. It was almost certain that we'd marry some day, but he had to marry another girl after she became pregnant. He doesn't love her, and after the baby is born he's going to leave. I love him more and more but am afraid he won't get the divorce.

LINA L.
Dear Lina: The young man seems to have enough on his hands without your loving interference. Get lost!

Dear Dorothy Dix: I'm 17 in love with two boys, one a sailor and the other a soldier. At present, I'm engaged to the soldier, but I think I really love the sailor most.

MIXED-UP
Dear Mixed-Up: Don't decide until you see what the Marines and the Air Force have to offer! Break the engagement and keep looking.

Dear Dorothy Dix: The man I love is an army career man, married but separated from his wife, who, by the way, is his third. He claims he's getting a divorce, but doesn't know when. Should I wait until he has legally separated from his wife before I continue dating him, or try to forget him altogether? I feel that either way I'm going to get hurt.

GERTIE
Dear Gertie: You're a wise girl to realize that you'll get battle scars no matter how the romance turns out. Which is better, a hurt that will last the rest of your life, or a bit of heartache that will end very soon?

Baylor, Tennessee Silent on Offense

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Undefeated Tennessee and rugged Baylor entered their Sugar Bowl battle today with no hint of whether they would stage a tight defensive football game or a wide-open offensive show.

about 142 million square miles is covered by water, and 55 million by land.

Water, when real cold, comes in little and big chunks called ice cubes and icebergs. It can also be a vapor but is generally fluid. In this form it is wet one of its many properties that often make it appealing on New Year's Day.

Two final things to remember: A gallon of water weighs 8.33 pounds; and if anyone really feels like going overboard for water the best place might be the Marlinas Trench in the Pacific where the water—it's salty — is 35,640 feet deep.

There is reported actually to be a single cause in medical annals of a person, while on dry land, drank so much water he drowned.

But isn't there always, in every situation one guy who doesn't know when to quit?

"The people of England drink no water save at certain times for penance." John Fortescue, 1462.

"Water is a very good servant, but it is a cruel master." John Bullin, 1562.

"Water don't very greatly deject the appetite, destroy the natural heat, and overthrow the strength of the stomach, and consequently it is the cause of crudities, fluctuations and windiness in the body." Tobias Vener, 1620.

The quotations in anthologies ranging from those of H. L. Menckon to Burton Stevenson deal with wine twice as often as they do with water.

Briefly, to summarize the situation for the thirsty, here are some basic facts about water.

It is a chemical combination of Hydrogen and Oxygen.

Highlights Of Loneoke Baptist Church

The Southwest District Singing Convention, Division B, began at 11:00 A. M. Sunday, December 30, 1956, with several choirs participating. Each choir was well represented. A total of $129.00 was raised. In the "Queen Contest," Mrs. Richard Wilson, Jr., representing Loneoke, reported the highest amount, $17.00, for which a copy of the Baptist Standard Hymnal was presented to the choir.

The next Convention will be held in March of 1957, at Sweet Home Baptist Church, Emmet.

The evening worship was conducted by the Missionary Society. The theme of the service was, "The Saving of Souls." Features of the service were talks by Mrs. Draper, "Girded for the New Year," Mrs. Coby, "Why We Worship," and Mrs. Wilson, "The Responsibility of a New Era."

'Between Heaven and Hell' Dramatizes Heroic Exploits of 'The Dixie Daredevils'

World War II interrupts this brief moment of romance for Robert Wagner and Terry Moore in Twentieth Century-Fox's CinemaScope, color by DeLuxe drama, "Between Heaven and Hell," opening Wednesday at the Saenger theater. The unusual story about a group of soldiers who became the "Hell-Fighters of the Pacific" also stars Broderick Crawford and Buddy Ebsen.

The exploits of one of the South's crack National Guard units that fought heroically in the Pacific during World War II has been dramatized in "Between Heaven and Hell," a Twentieth Century-Fox CinemaScope picture in DeLuxe color, which opens at the Saenger theater here on Wednesday. Robert Wagner, Terry Moore, Broderick Crawford and Buddy Ebsen head the star cast in this story of love, the horrors of war and the hard life of sharecroppers. It was written by Francis Gwaltney, a young Arkansas novelist, Conway, Ark., whose southern upbringing gave him the necessary background for "The Day the Century Ended," his second novel, upon which the picture was based. His character studies in "Between Heaven and Hell" are reminiscent of such military themes as "From Here to Eternity" and "The Caine Mutiny."

Producer David Weisbart took his company to Hawaii to film the exciting beach-landing scenes that show the Southern troops getting their first baptism of fire from the Japanese. The heroic action of young Sam Gifford, a hot-headed youth, in wiping out a Jap squad holed-up in a cave wins him the Silver Star medal and motivates the unfolding of the gripping story. It was here that these Southern troops won for themselves the name of "Hell-Fighters of the Pacific."

Robert Wagner plays the highly serious role of a young, Southern landowner who has no use for sharecroppers, or people like him, until he learns to judge his fellow man by what he is and not by his station in life. Many people are responsible for bringing him to this realization. There is the cowardly Army Captain who needs protection from his own men, played by Broderick Crawford. There is also his lovely Southern-belle wife, played by Terry Moore, who shows him that an otherwise idyllic relationship is being threatened by his attitude toward people below him in class. And there are his fellow soldiers in the heated action of the Pacific Theater of War.

"Between Heaven and Hell" features a strong supporting cast headed by Robert Keith, Brad Dexter, Mark Damon, Ken Clark, Harvey Lembeck, Skip Homeier, L. Q. Jones, Tod Andrews, Biff Elliot and Bart Burns.

Richard Fleischer, whose latest credits include "Violent Saturday" and "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea," directed this drama from a script by Harry Brown, who owns one of the coveted "Oscars" for his screenplay for "A Place in the Sun."

Says Fullmer's Strength to Defeat Him

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK—Gene Fullmer's strength could be his weakness and lead to his downfall against Middleweight Champion Ray Robinson.

That's the way Joe Louis sizes up the Wednesday night bout at Madison Square Garden. The former heavyweight champion picks the 36-year-old Robinson and feels Sugar Ray might knock out the "thick-necked, muscular challenger within 10 rounds."

"Gene is strong and rugged and figures to be on top of Ray all the way," said Joe after watching Robinson's final two workouts. Fullmer should miss a lot of punches, he usually does. That might be his downfall.

"Robinson has a hooked real sharp. His combinations have been fast and accurate and he is throwing his right like a bomb. His legs seem in wonderful condition. Say should win because he is quick to take advantage of the other fellow's mistakes."

The 25-year-old Fullmer, a well conditioned apprentice welder from West Jordan, Utah, contented himself with roadwork yesterday.

Ray meanwhile, thrice staggered his sparring partner, Lee Williams. Despite Robinson's standout workouts of the past few days, the betting still favored Fullmer by 8 to 5.

8 Major Grid Teams Seeking Honors Today

By ED CORRIGAN
Of The Associated Press

The eight college football teams with spots in the four major postseason bowl games—the Sugar, Rose, Cotton and Orange—arrived at the end of the proverbial rainbow today.

Here is the lineup with team records and the television coverage:

Sugar Bowl at New Orleans — Tennessee (10-0) vs. Baylor (8-2). ABC-TV, 2 p. m. EST.

Rose Bowl at Pasadena Calif. — Iowa (8-1) vs. Oregon State (7-2). NBC-TV, 5 p. m. EST.

Cotton Bowl at Dallas — Syracuse (7-1) vs. Texas Christian (7-3). NBC-TV, 2 p. m. EST.

Orange Bowl at Miami—Colorado (7-2-1) vs. Clemson (7-2-1). CBS-TV, 2 p. m. EST.

There also are three smaller games scheduled—the Sun Bowl at El Paso Tex. between George Washington (7-1-1) and Texas Western (9-1-0), the Prairie View Bowl at Houston between Texas Southern (8-1) and Prairie View A and M (4-5) and the Tangerine Bowl at night at Orlando, Fla., between Mississippi Southern (7-1-1) and Texas State (7-2).

While the promoters have found themselves in the unusual position of trying to sell leftover tickets, the Orange Bowl could turn into the closest of the four big ones. The other big bowls are sellouts.

Clemson and Colorado are evenly matched and use the same kind of grind-em-down-along-the-trench offense. They employ little passing.

The only trouble is that neither is much of a draw at the gate. The folks are used to seeing the likes of Maryland and Duke represent the Atlantic Coast Conference. They were disappointed when Clemson won it.

As for Colorado, the Buffs were no better than second in the Big Seven, which supplies the other team. But the conference has a rule which prohibits the same team from making the trip twice in a row. The telecast of Oklahoma, the national champion.

Another close match should be the Texas Christian - Syracuse game. TCU which finished second behind ineligible Texas A and M in the Southwest Conference, has been installed a narrow favorite.

Tennessee, which ousted Oklahoma as the No. 1 team in the country in the Associated Press poll for a time during the regular season, is a 7-point favorite over Baylor in the Sugar Bowl.

Iowa ranks an 8-point choice over Oregon State, possibly on the fact that the two teams clashed in a regular season game which the Hawkeyes won, 14-13.

Mexico A&M, Kentucky Team in Finals

OWENSBORO, Ky.—Kentucky Wesleyan and New Mexico A&M battle for the basketball crown in the All-American city tournament final tonight. Wesleyan took an 83-72 semifinal win over Virginia last night and New Mexico A&M upset Maryland, 44-43.

Virginia and Maryland will decide third place in a game preceding the championship tilt.

Kentucky Wesleyan rang up 14 points — eight by Tom ox — in a two-minute scoring spree last night that left Virginia trailing 56-43 midway in the second period. The best disciplined Virginia could do after that was narrow the gap to the final 10-point margin.

New Mexico A&M put on a ball-hawking and rebounding exhibition to edge favored Maryland which was frustrated by fouls in an attempt to break up A&M's defensive-style play.

Iona College of New Rochelle, N. Y., meets Montana State for fifth place this afternoon. State nosed out the University of Georgetown, 57-71. In the consolation bracket yesterday, Iona was scheduled against the University of Mississippi but the Southern school withdrew from the tournament because of a Negro player on the Iona team.

Barely a handful of nontournament games was played Monday. Georgia, surprise winner of the Gator Bowl, journey in Jacksonville, Fla., last week. Atpied Florida 69-62 in the first game of the Southeastern Conference season. Hubert Reed, 8-10 junior scored 24 points as Oklahoma City crushed Oregon, 74-52.

Northwestern, with Dick Johnson scoring 24 points and Phil Warlick came from behind to defeat Yale's touring team, 78-63.

Chicago Loyola edged Western Michigan 87-55. Murray (Ky.) came back from a three-point deficit at halftime to defeat Mississippi State, 91-80, and St. Bonaventure spoiled previously unbeaten Creighton, 70-60.

64 Qualify in L. A. Golf Meet

LOS ANGELES—Sixty-four qualifiers for the Los Angeles open golf tournament were led by Dick Knight, 27-year-old pro from Omaha.

The firing yesterday was at five courses and Knight turned in a 5-under-par 34-38-67 at Lakewood country club in Long Beach. He led the PGA tournament trail at

Dedication of New Gym Scheduled Here Jan. 11

A big dedication program is being planned for the opening game in the new Hope High School gymnasium where Hope will play Nashville Friday night, January 11. A capacity crowd is expected.

At a meeting here last night the local Boosters Club discussed the special program the highlight of which will be the presentation of five members of Hope's first basketball team, all still living here.

Every effort will be made to fill the gymnasium completely and Boosters Club members are to sell advance tickets while students will sell student tickets.

Norman Moore and Noah Hobbs reported that the concession stand which the Boosters will operate is ready. Cold drinks, candy, gum, hot dogs, popcorn and coffee will be available at every game.

Following the business session Jimmy Jones conducted a tour of the new gymnasium which is complete except for installation of goals and backboards and a few other minor details.

There will be two games opening night with the Senior boys and girls of both schools playing.

Oregon State Doped to Lose by Big Score

By BOB MYERS

PASADENA, Calif.—It was a gloomy day and the prospects were anything but bright for an Oregon State football team that was the best of a rather mediocre lot in the Pacific coast conference.

The date was Jan. 3, 1942, 15 years ago, and the Beavers of OSC were playing a great Duke University team one of the finest in the land, in a Rose Bowl game transplanted hurriedly by the World War II crisis to Durham, N. C.

Duke had a brilliant running back named Steve Lach, and the man clearing the way for him was a big fellow named Tommy Prothro. The Blue Devils were unbeaten and united.

Oregon State had been beaten by Southern California and by Washington State.

The net result of the afternoon in Durham was a stunning 20-16 victory over Duke.

So it was today that Oregon State coached by that same ex-Duke star, Tommy Prothro, went into the Rose Bowl distinct underdogs to Iowa. OSC was the best of a badly mixed up PCC and Iowa was the champion of the powerful Big Ten conference.

Iowa had a better record against tougher opposition, and a fine set of hard running backs in Kenney Plonk, Don Dobrino Mike Hadler and others. They had a big line anchored by left tackle Alex Karras. The Hawks only loss of the season was to Michigan and one of their victories was 14-13 over Oregon State.

Oregon State had also lost to Southern California been tied by Oregon, and barely eked out a win over Idaho. They had to have speed, and an All-American tackle in John Witte.

Mrs. McCormick Has Many Trophies

LAKEWOOD, Calif.—Pat McCormick, two-time Olympic diving champion, has enough trophies to fill just about every mantelpiece in her neighborhood, but still has no trouble getting excited about her latest acquisition.

Her newest award is the James E. Sullivan AAU memorial trophy, citing her as the outstanding amateur athlete of 1956.

"You can't imagine how thrilled I was," Pat said yesterday after she was advised she had won the trophy in a nationwide poll of sports authorities.

Pat, who retired after her great Olympic performance this year, amassed 1,889 points in the voting to 877 for decathlon star Rafer Johnson who finished second.

Only last week, the 26-year-old mother and winner of 27 national titles, was named woman athlete of the year in the annual Associated Press poll.

ter recently selling his Omaha driving range.

The 81 who qualified will join approximately 87 golfers who were exempt, including most of the game's big names, for the $37,500 72-hole open starting Friday. It will be preceded by a pro-celebrity event, Thursday.

A DOCTOR for BLUE JAY COVE

By ELIZABETH SEIFERT

THE STORY: When Dr. Alex Ward returns from the hospital he finds his mother very angry over something. Alex goes to his apartment over what was once a garage behind the large boarding house, to eat alone with Cass.

XIV
Alex ate with appetite, and he waited until he was almost through before she asked if his mother had told him what had happened.

"She thought she was telling me," he answered, "but she didn't make much sense. I was hoping that you could straighten things out for me."
"Cass nodded. "Well, I can, perhaps, but you got a letter too." She went over to the desk and brought him the Special Delivery. "He straightened the sheet in his hand and read aloud from the letter which his sister Marcy had written to him. He was beginning to get the full import of the message—Cass saw perspiration bead upon his upper lip.

"Dear Alexander, I hate to do this to a good guy, but here are the facts, Sugar. Last Saturday I up and eloped with Leo Powers—Captain, army—me him at a dance three weeks ago. He's been stationed at our local fortress, and now is leaving for duty in Germany on Saturday next, Me, too.

"He's a good-looking guy, Alex. For I think so, but he's crew cuts don't do much for any man. He's blond, and not too tall—but, anyway, it's done. I know Aunt Cordy wouldn't like any part of this step so I took it first, and told her about it afterward. There was no time anyway for tulle and smilax. Love, darling, and give some of it to your bride, Marcy Ward Powers."

Alex's voice trailed away, the letter hung limp in his fingers. Cass filled his coffee cup. He glanced up at her, then wiped his face with his seat sleeve. "What do I do now?" he asked, as if he really wanted the information.

The next day Alex wrote a couple of letters asking for information on Captain Powers. Aunt Cordy received a letter from the school, which Marcy had attended. She threw it into the waste basket, importantly indifferent. A short notice of her wedding appeared in the local paper—few people mentioned the matter to Cass, and to Alex.

But before much of anything could be said or done, even before Alex and Cass had really assimilated the development, the whole thing was overshadowed by the return home of Matthias Knapp.

He didn't surprise anyone; he

$4.4 Billion for Foreign Aid Likely

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Eisenhower administration reportedly wants $4,400,000,000 in new foreign aid funds next year.
Informants who disclosed this yesterday said top officials will outline the request to congressional leaders in a special White House briefing tomorrow. President Eisenhower will take part in the briefing session. Congress reconvenes Thursday.
Last winter the administration asked for $4900,000,000, but Congress voted 700 millions less than that for his current bookkeeping year which ends June 3.
Officials familiar with administration plans said the new request will call for about $2400,000,000 in military aid and some two billions in economic and technical aid.

Dulles Maps U. S. Policy in Middle East

By RALPH TEATSORTH
NEW YORK, N. Y. (UP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles meets with U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld today as the first step in working out a new United States policy to keep peace in the stormy Middle East.
They had a lunch date as guests of Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., U. S. chief delegate to the United Nations, in his Waldorf-Astoria apartment.
The United States will enter the new year with a firm resolve to assume responsibility for preventing the Middle East situation from deteriorating into a world war. It will strive in particular to halt any Russian moves or subversion in lands that supply a big share of the world's oil.
Impaired force was the cornerstone of the new "Eisenhower doctrine" for the Middle East. President Eisenhower was believed ready to ask the Congress for authority to use American armed forces if necessary, to maintain order in that region.

was that," he complained to Cass. "But with admissions moved to two men, and a possible third doctor, the only man functioning is getting a bad sag in the middle of his back."
"Doesn't Matt do any work Alex?"
"Enough to make it seem that we have a second doctor. We schedule our day's work for two men—and he walks out for several hours, or is missing at the day's start, and doesn't show up till around 10. Or he leaves at three with out-patients still in the waiting rooms."

"Does Sue disappear too?"
"Matt takes off solo—or at least not with Sue."

Bigger and Better Year Seen in '57

By BRYCE B. MILLER

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Industrial leaders and financial experts believed at year-end that the national boom in 1956 was mirrored in Arkansas, and predicted a bigger and better year in 1957.

The Federal Reserve reported manufacturing employment had reached a new high. Construction activity was at a high level. Retail sales were above the previous year.

The one possible exception was the possibility of a small decline in cash farm receipts.

Substantial gains in receipts from soybeans and peaches and a small gain from livestock and Economic aid to Middle Eastern states also had an important place in the program shaping up. Dulles sought to assure Hammarskjöld that the United States intends to continue its support of U. N. efforts to find a peaceful solution to the Middle East's problems.

The United Nations has no "teeth" to enforce its recommendations. It was obvious that the United States was ready to use its military might to preserve the status quo in the Middle East while the 80-nation organization wrestles with the thorny problem.

livestock products during the year were not enough to offset the decline in cotton.

Fred Burton of the Little Rock Federal Reserve branch said the number of non-farm jobs in Arkansas grew by nearly 10,000 during the year. More than half of the gain came in manufacturing with other significant increases in trade, service and government. Coupled with the growth of manufacturing employment was a rise in average weekly earnings, he said.

Construction contract awards reported in the state in the first 11 months of the year were seven per cent above those of the same months of 1956.

A slight decline in contracts for residential buildings was more than offset by growth in contracts for manufacturing plants.

Department store sales in the Little Rock area were approximately five per cent higher than in 1956. Fort Smith department store sales were up four per cent.

Perhaps the most distinctive feature of the year was the high rate of investment in new plant and equipment which sustained the boom, both nationally and in Arkansas.

The value of contracts awarded for construction of manufacturing buildings in the state during the year was greater than in any year since 1952. All sections of Arkansas had substantial new plants or expansions to their ness activity and employment in 1956, but also for the new employment opportunities to be realized in the years ahead.

TV Doing Fine Job With the Football Games

By CHARLES MERCEUR

NEW YORK (AP)—Tomorrow being a day largely devoted to football, with four bowl games occupying six hours or so on the three major networks, this seems like a good time to assess the job television is doing in covering the sport.

The job admittedly is tough. A football field in 100 yards long and things sometimes happen fast. An adept T-quarterback, who can fool the opposition right on top of him, is certain sometimes to fool a cameraman up in the stands—not to mention unschooled observers like you and me.

But it has been my impression that in general TV is doing an increasingly polished job.

Certainly there are irritating times. In the crucial Chicago Bears-Detroit Lions pro game a couple of weeks ago, for example, the studied manner in which the camera focused on the crowd, the goal posts and anywhere else while a first rate brawl was going on in the middle of the field was highly annoying.

But this is the kind of decision the mixer has to make, and he can't always please everybody. The mixer is the man who looks at four or five or six pictures, taken by different cameras, simultaneously in his little cubicle and picks out the one that goes over the air.

But this viewer lays no claims to being an expert at football broadcasting. So it seemed a good time to call on one—Ted Smits, the general sports editor of The Associated Press and a man who makes watching football a profession.

He concedes that he, and others in the press box, often have been confused by the razzle dazzle of modern ball handling and has found that TV in many cases opens up an entirely new aspect of the game.

"True," he says, "the TV cameramen sometimes get confused and follow the decoy and not the man carrying the ball. But because of the big crews and the long familiarity with the teams involved they usually manage to do a crackerjack job—with the result that viewers get a much closer, clearer view of the work in the backfield than do the fans in the stadium."

HUNTING MISHAP FATAL

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A 6-year-old Negro boy died here today from a bullet wound received in a hunting accident yesterday at Pine Bluff.

The victim was Johnny Grant Jr., Deputy Sheriff Buck Olliger said at Pine Bluff that the boy's 10-year-old brother fired at a rabbit near the Pine Bluff airport and the .22 caliber bullet struck Johnny Grant in the head.
